Title:

Anna Lea Merritt Papers

Provenance:

David and Anne Sellin of Washington, D.C. donated the Papers of Anna Lea Merritt to the National Museum of Women in the Arts in December 1991. In addition to the contents of the archival collection, the donation also included one oil painting (a self-portrait of the artist), two etchings, and one watercolor study, which are stored with NMWA’s permanent collection. Mr. and Mrs. Sellin acquired the collection from Sidney Jolles of Philadelphia, Pa., who acquired it from the estate of an unidentified Merritt family member.

Collection Dates:

Inclusive Dates: 1863-1922

Physical Description:

1 boxes (approx. 2 linear feet)

Summary:

The Anna Lea Merritt collection consists mainly of photographic reproductions of her work as well as related materials. Anna Lea Merritt was born in the United States but lived and worked as painter in England for much of her life. The National Museum of Women in the Arts holds several of her works in the permanent collection.

Publication and Photocopies Note:

Permission from the National Museum of Women in the Arts required for publication and reproduction of original materials. Photocopies of original materials can be made for a fee and at the discretion of the library director.

Related Materials Note:

The Archives on Women Artists in the Library and Research Center at the National Museum of Women in the Arts maintains a vertical file on Anna Lea Merritt, which includes articles and other secondary research material.

Dates and data regarding the subjects of Merritt’s photographs have been checked against information contained in Love Locked Out: The Memoirs of Anna Lea Merritt. Edited by Galina Gorokhoff, this is the only monograph published about Merritt’s life and work. In some cases, dates for paintings recorded by Merritt in Series III: Album differ from the dates listed by Gorokhoff. The publication includes a checklist of Merritt’s paintings and a selected bibliography. Her acknowledgements point to additional resources for primary materials.

Merritt’s sister, Marion Lea Mitchell, was a well-known actress from the late 1880s through the early 1900s. There is not a great deal of biographical information available on her, however. She is known to have co-produced Ibsen’s play Hedda Gabler with fellow actress Elizabeth Robins for the first time in 1891. Correspondence between Mitchell and Robins resides in the Papers of Elizabeth Robins, which are held by New York University.
Historical/Biographical Note

A versatile artist and writer, Anna Massey Lea Merritt (1844-1930) was born in Philadelphia to an affluent Quaker family. Her father, Joseph Lea Jr., owned cotton manufacturing and printing factories, and three of her five younger sisters also developed careers in the visual and performing arts.

As a young girl, Lea attended politically progressive schools and studied classics, languages, mathematics, and music with private tutors. Initially, she taught herself to paint, but later she studied anatomy at the Women's Medical College in Philadelphia and, after moving to Europe with her family in 1865, she took art lessons with various masters in Italy, Germany, and France.

At the start of the Franco-Prussian War, Lea settled in London, where her teacher - the British painter and picture restorer, Henry Merritt - also became her mentor and, in April 1877, her husband. Unfortunately, he died just three months after their wedding. As a memorial, Anna taught herself to etch and produced a book of Henry Merritt's art criticism and fiction, illustrated with 23 of her prints. A prolific author in her own right, Anna also wrote and illustrated two books about Hurstbourne Tarrant, the English village to which she moved in 1891 and where she spent the remaining four decades of her life. In addition, she published articles about mural painting, gardening, and the obstacles facing women artists.

Merritt executed several major mural commissions, as well as portraits and easel paintings on literary and religious subjects. A member of London's Royal Society of Painters and Etchers, Merritt exhibited her work regularly at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, the Royal Academy in London, and the Paris Salon. Her paintings and prints were also displayed at a number of prestigious venues, including the 1876 Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia, the 1889 Exposition Universelle in Paris, and the 1893 World’s Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

Chronology:

1844  Anna Massey Lea is born in Philadelphia to Joseph and Susanna Massey Lea, a prominent Quaker family. Anna is the eldest of six sisters.

1858-1860  Attends Eagleswood School, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

1861  Attends Agassiz School, Cambridge, Mass.

1865  The Lea family moves to Europe in search of medical treatment for Anna’s sister, Julia. Before their departure, Anna takes classes in anatomy at the Women’s Medical College in Philadelphia, Pa.

        In Florence, Anna receives private lessons from Stefano Ussi.

1865  The family travels to Rome, then Dresden.

1869  In Dresden, Anna studies privately with Heinrich Hoffman.

1870  Anna moves to London. She settles first on Tite Street and later moves to Cheyne Walk in London’s Chelsea district, where her neighbors include artists James McNeill Whistler, Edmund Burne-Jones, William Holman Hunt, George Watts, George Cruikshank, and Lord Frederick Leighton.

1871  Begins studies with Henry Merritt (1822-1877), a critic and painter.

1876  Participates in the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition and wins medals for St. Genevieve (1875) and Patrician Mother (1876).

1877  Marries Henry Merritt, who dies suddenly in June 1877, three months after their wedding.

        Anna documents his life in Henry Merritt: Art Criticism and Romance, which is published as a two-volume set in 1879. Anna’s success as a printmaker begins with the 23 etchings she creates to illustrate her publication.

1882  Accepts commission to paint James Russell Lowell.

1883  Paints War.
1888 Exhibits 33 etchings at Work of the Women Etchers of America, Union League Club, New York, N.Y.

1889 Is awarded Honorable Mention for Camilla (1882) at the Exposition Universelle, Paris.

  Paints Henry James and Love Locked Out.

  Love Locked Out is exhibited at the Royal Academy, and becomes the first work by a woman to be purchased by the Chantry Fund (British Government) for the Tate Gallery.

1892 Travels to Egypt seeking better climate for health reasons.

1893 Commissioned to paint murals for the vestibule of the Women’s Building at the Chicago World’s Columbian Exposition on themes of benevolence, needlework, and education. Unable to travel to Chicago to visit the exposition herself, she ships the murals. She is awarded a medal for Eve (1885).

1894 Commissioned to paint murals for St. Martin’s Church in Chillworth, Surrey.

  Paints Watchers of the Straight Gate.

1895 The Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts purchases The Piping Shepherd (1895).

1901 Exhibits work at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo, N.Y. and receives an award.

1902 Writes A Hamlet in Old Hampshire.

1908 Writes An Artist’s Garden.

1926 Writes her memoirs.

1930 Dies on April 7 in Hurstbourne Tarrant.
Scope and Content Note

The Papers of Anna Lea Merritt consist almost entirely of photographs ranging in dates from 1863 to 1922. The most valuable item in the collection is a photograph album of reproductions of Merritt’s work. Although the leather cover and binding are in poor condition and many pages are cockled, the photographs (many of which appear to be photogravures or albumen prints) are in good condition. The date the album was compiled is not known, but from the dates of works which appear within, an approximate date of 1922 can be ascertained. Merritt made numerous annotations throughout the album.

Three mounted photographs are also included in this collection. Two are reproductions of works by Merritt, and the third is a view of the interior of the artist’s home at Tite Street, London.

The remainder of the collection consists of review articles, a reproduction of a portrait of Anna Lea Merritt, and photographs of Merritt’s youngest sister, actress Marion Lea Mitchell. These photos document Mitchell’s life and career.

Organization and Arrangement Information

Arrangement Note:

The collection is divided into three series:

Series 1: Clippings
Series 2: Photographs
Series 3: Album

Series 1 consists of two news clippings mounted back to back on a single sheet of paper. Both are reviews of plays in which Marion Lea [Mitchell] appeared.

Series 2 contains all loose photographs which are not represented in Series III: Album. Most of these pertain to the life and career of Marion Lea Mitchell. Some are mounted or have had newspaper clippings attached to them. Each photo is provided with item-level description in the Box Inventory below.

Series 3 is a leather bound album that contains photographs of works by Anna Lea Merritt. The Box Inventory lists the photographs in the order they appear in the album. Annotations by Merritt appear in quotations in the box inventory.
